In Praise of Mothers

Mothers have a way with them
Only mothers know;
Just a secret heavenly
God has taught them so.

Arms that know the way to make
Softest cradle-bed,
Giving shelter from the world
To a baby's head.

Hands that know no weariness,
Blistered to the bone;
Mother's hands are made of love
Made of love and stone.

Eyes that leave the sunshine in
For a rainy day,
Dropping memories of light,
All along life's way.

Lips that know no other song
But the song of love;
They must learn their lullabies
Somewhere there above.

Feet that climb to Calvary,
Feet that run to save,
Feet that follow, follow on
Even into the grave.

Mothers have a way with them,
Only mothers know;
To take His place on earth,
God just made them so.
